Description of Virginia and Combination Grates, Outfits 1 and 2.

The Nos. 1363 and 281 Virginia and Combination Grates which we show are undoubtedly the handsomest grates of their kind on the market.

The basket is of heavy iron and hangs on the frame which is also made of heavy cast iron, and the fire brick should be built to fit snugly up to the basket. (See sectional view of grate setting, page 13.) The basket is so made that it is very easy to poke out the ashes. The grate is suitable for burning hard coal, soft coal or wood.

NOTE—No Fire Brick or Top Tiles are included with any of our Virginia or Combination grates for the reason that these articles are a common commodity which can be bought in almost any hardware store for less money than we could afford to deliver them, as they are heavy freight.

We will furnish Top Tiles at $1.50 list each, and Fire Brick at $1.00 list per setting, net, F. O. B. cars Chicago.

DESCRIPTION OF

Improved Columbian Ventilating Grates

FOR

HARD COAL, SOFT COAL, COKE OR WOOD.

OUTFITS Nos. 15 and 16

WHAT WE CLAIM FOR THEM

1st—They are made in one piece like a stove, and require no labor or expense to set, it being only necessary to push them into the fireplace and they are ready for use.

2d—Its air supply being not overheated, is far more pleasant and healthful than that of a furnace.

3d—It keeps fire from Fall till Spring, and will run over 24 hours without any attention.

4th—In case of the breakage of tiles while in use, they can be replaced from the front without disturbing other parts of the large iron frame.

5th—The greatest economy. All the solid fuel and a large portion of the smoke and gases being consumed.

6th—Cleanliness. The dust being carried up the flue in the rear of the back fire tile and discharged into the main flue. (See sectional view.)

7th—Durability and simplicity of construction. No light castings, no complicated machinery.

8th—Our new shaking and dumping bottom grate is the most satisfactory ever produced.

9th—It shakes without disturbing the entire bed of fire, simply sifts the ashes through into the stationary ash pan or ash pit below; will not waste unburned fuel, and cannot become clogged by slate or clinkers. It has a double set of lateral bars, one directly over the other, with a set of pins attached between lower set of bars, extending through upper set and into fire pot as shown in cut. When desired the entire contents of fire pot may be dumped into the ash pan or ash pit same as the ordinary dumping bottom grate.

10th—It can be dumped and cleaned out with ease and dispatch.

11th—As near perfect combustion as possible to get in a grate.

12th—The Summer Front, so constructed as to fit closely and readily into position without removing the grate or any portion of it.

13th—The cold air which lies on the floor is rapidly drawn through the back flues, which assists greatly in heating the room.

14th—The current of air passing up the back flues, into the chimney improves the draft wonderfully, and although we do not claim to cure smoky chimneys, there are countless instances where it has been done.

15th—They are surpassed by none in the world in excellence of finish and beauty of designs.

The Columbian Ventilating Grate is a most economical consumer of fuel, burns hard or soft coal, wood or coke with perfect combustion, absolutely no waste of fuel.

Scientists have demonstrated that a given amount of coal will produce more units of heat when burned at a cherry-red heat than at any other temperature. The Columbian Ventilating Grate consumes the coal at this most economical degree and furnishes a cheerful fire which will keep over night as well as with the most modern coal stove; and there is no dust, gas or smoke in the room from a Columbian Ventilating Grate.

The Columbian Ventilating Grate is built of the finest stove plate iron, is mounted in one piece, and can be set by any mason by following our simple instructions.

For use in the Southern States or warmer climates, there is no system of heating and ventilating which furnishes such satisfactory conditions as the Columbian Ventilating Grate. The first cost is insignificant when the saving of fuel is taken into account, not to mention the artistic, healthful and cheerful results to be obtained by its use.

In the North or colder climates the Columbian Ventilating Grate can be used to the exclusion of those more extravagant fuel consumers, the furnace, steam or hot water plant, at least six weeks each, later in the Fall and earlier in the Spring than with any other grate, the saving in fuel being equal within a very short time to the first cost of the Columbian, while, during the most severe weather the Columbian can be used in connection with the other heating apparatus without any additional expense for fuel, as the heat produced by both will be circulated by the Columbian thoroughly throughout the room and the temperature kept equal from floor to ceiling while at the same time the ventilation is perfect, and the cheerful effect of the open fire will be appreciated by the entire household.

For use in cottages or Summer homes the Columbian Ventilating Grate is the acme of perfection.

There is nothing one can place in their home, which for the same amount invested will contribute so much to the comfort artistic beauty and all around satisfaction as an Improved Columbian Ventilating Grate, surrounded by a LORENZEN WOOD MANTEL.

OUTFITS Nos. 15 and 16 WHAT THEY WILL DO

The damper system as applied to the Improved Columbian Ventilating Grates gives the user absolute control of the fire, thereby providing an easy way to increase or lessen the heat as required. This is an important feature.

It also affords an excellent system of ventilation, as well as collecting the cold air from the floor and carrying the same into the air chamber back of the fire tile, where it becomes superheated and passes above the line of fire, producing perfect combustion of the gases, which otherwise would escape into the flue unconsumed. This consumption of the gases adds very materially to the heating qualities, as well as to the economy, cheerfulness and cleanliness.

We would call your special attention to the position occupied by the top tile, which acts as a check and prevents the heat from passing direct into the flue. It also insures the passing of the superheated air directly over the line of the fire, producing greater benefit for the fuel consumed. By opening the lower damper when shaking the grate all the dust is drawn into the chamber back of the fire and then discharged into the main flue.

The upper damper is controlled by regulating device, which can be set at any point to meet the requirements of the flue to which the grate is attached. It can be closed absolutely tight when not in use, thereby preventing soot or other dirt from entering the room.

The Improved Columbian Ventilating Grates are constructed in parts and bolted firmly together, with a view of providing for the necessary expansion and contraction. This is an important feature that is never adopted in cheap grates, and where provision is not made for expansion, it very often causes the displacement of the tile facing.

All tile linings used in the Improved Columbian Ventilating Grates are made with a view of great durability; they are carefully set in asbestos cement, which insures an absolutely tight fire chamber.

Special provision is also made for the easy and convenient replacing of the tile linings when required.

GAS LOG FIREPLACES.

Description of Outfits Nos. 10 and 11.

These Grates are complete with Log Valve and Mixer, ready for connection and use. The back is made of heavy sheet steel, double reflector top, with corrugations in the back, which permits the air to pass from the base up around and through the openings and the log, and besides assisting combustion, becomes heated and passes into the room, greatly adding to the quality of the grate. This feature is in no other grate made.

We guarantee the logs to be the best made, and so constructed as to give a flame on the entire face of the log, with perfect combustion and giving intense heat.

As these grates are intended for service as well as appearance, we construct them with different size logs to suit the service required of them; the larger the log the greater the heat.

Be sure and state whether for natural or artificial gas.

MOUNTED OR SET GRATES.

This description applies to Outfits Nos. 3-5-6-7-8-9-15 and 16.

The continued use for over ten years of the Double Draft Portable Grates, or Fireplaces, has proven that they are the most economical, practical and satisfactory fireplaces made. They have the advantage over the regular common brick setting in that they are—

A complete Grate all mounted, ready for setting.

They require no fire brick or fire tile in setting.

They can be set by any mason.

The dampers can be so operated as to control the fire. By opening the lower damper, which is directly over and close to the fire, it forms a strong direct draft, which as soon as it heats the flue, forms a rapid current of air, thus carrying off the dense smoke. When the fire is well under way, the lower damper can be closed, the upper one remaining open. The heat is then reflected into the room.

The upper damper is arranged to close in the summer to prevent dust and soot from coming into the room, and is so constructed as to be opened any desired width to control the fire.

Some of these grates are so arranged that they can be operated same as a stove and a fire can be kept for an indefinite period.

They are also provided with shaking or dumping bottoms.

They are all brick lined, or iron backed, with air chambers at the side and require tile only at the rear of the fire.

Each kind is fully described in this book.

THE NEW MONARCH GRATE

Description of Outfit No. 9.

The latest of all grates.

Has all known modern improvements.

Has more desirable features than any grate made.

Has the largest firepot of any grate made.

Has no metal exposed to the fire except back damper.

Has curved tile top, very thick. The curved shape reflects the heat into the room.

Top tile is so arranged that cracking of same will not injure the grate.

Has double basket front with damper in same. Ashes fall between these baskets under grate.

Has damper in ash screen so as to control the fire.

Has double or lined hoods to frames so as to preserve the plating.

Has three top dampers:

UPPER, OR FLUE DAMPER, operated by our improved thumb screw attachment, whereby damper can be opened any desired width with great ease, controlling the draft up the chimney, and can be closed tight to prevent dust or soot from entering the room.

DIRECT, OR LOWER DAMPER, which is used in starting the fire, being directly over the fire acts the same as a blower, carrying off first heavy smoke and gases, soon heating the flue, thus producing a quick fire and overcomes smoky chimneys. This damper is to be closed as soon as fire is under way, so as to reflect heat into the room.

DOWN, OR CHECK DRAFT DAMPER—This damper controls a flue 1½ inches wide from base of grate under fire to top of back. This flue is to be used in checking and preventing draft through the fire, causing a down draft whereby fire can be kept alive, consuming limited amount of fuel. It is also used when shaking the grate, to carry the dust up the chimney.

Extra heavy rocker shaker bottom, with trunions and back bar protected from fire under back.

Back bolted together, allowing for expansion.

Fire tile above fire bed set in asbestos cement.

Size of firepot, front 24, back 21½, depth 12 inches.

Outside depth of grate over all 16 inches.

Width of back over all 28½ inches.

Shipping weight 350 lbs.

MOUNTING TILE IN SLABS.

When prepared in this manner they can be set in place by any one, and do not require the services of a skilled mechanic.

The beauty of a mantel depends largely upon how the tile facing and hearth are set, and if you desire a nice smooth job of tile work and cannot command the services of a good tile layer, we recommend that you have us mount the tile for you. We take particular pains in packing the slabs when mounted, and always ship the large slabs packed on edge which we find to be the very best way to ship them, as they almost invariably reach destination in perfect condition.

Charge for Mounting Tile Facing in Slabs
ready to set, $6.50 list.

Charge for Mounting Tile Hearths in Slabs
ready to set, $8.00 list.

The above illustration shows our tiling mounted in slabs as we send it out (when so ordered), all ready to place in position. "A" represents a section of facing in position; "B" and "C" represent similar sections of facing to occupy the blank spaces so marked; "D" represents tile hearth.

Directions for Preparing Fireplaces

Fig. 1

TO MEET a long-felt want we give herewith a few illustrations showing clearly how the chimney and fireplace should be built to insure satisfaction. The chimney is seldom detailed by the architect and it is generally supposed that any good bricklayer can build a chimney properly. This is, however, not the case, and the mantel manufacturer is as a consequence blamed "because his fireplace does not draw", whereas this is solely due to improper constructions of the chimney and flue. For this reason we cannot urge any too strongly the importance of having the flue built correctly, and if the outlines shown in Fig. 1 are followed carefully we do not hesitate to guarantee that any of the grates shown in our catalogue will give perfect satisfaction.

The foundation for hearths should be placed upon a brick arch, if possible, as shown in Fig. 2, to insure perfect fire protection and then covered with concrete, consisting of One Part Portland Cement, Two Parts Clean Sharp Sand, Two Parts Clean Gravel, thoroughly mixed with sufficient water to form a hard solid mass when well beaten down into a bed which should be from  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to 3 inches thick.

If the hearth is placed upon a sub-foundation of wood, as shown in Fig. 3, the concrete should be at least 6 inches thick and in this case may be composed as follows: One Part Portland Cement, One Part Clean Sharp Sand, One Part Clean Gravel.

In Fig. 4 we show a cut of a fireplace built to accommodate an unmounted grate such as is shown in Outfits No. 1 and 2. A good grade of fire brick should be used for this purpose and the same should be built snugly up around the grate, allowing about one-half inch for expansion. The top tile may be dispensed with, although its use will, to a great extent facilitate the proper construction of the throat to the flue and its cost being nominal it ought to be included whenever Outfits No. 1 or 2 or a club house basket, such as shown on page 14, are used.

Directions for Setting Wood Mantels, Tile and Fireplaces

See that your chimney is well built and sound, and an arch is turned for the hearth. If brick arch is not turned, fill in with concrete composed of cinders and cheap cement to about one inch below floor—but we would recommend the turning of brick arch.

Now lay out the hearth, as per diagram we mail you, and get the exact size of same, and cut out the floor to fit hearth, allowing one-fourth of an inch for spreading. Put all the tile to soak in clean water, letting them remain there an hour, and then lay them out to drip.

Now mix up some good Portland cement (one-third cement and two-thirds clean sharp sand) and put this on the concrete, leveling same by using a straight edge, with notches cut out one-fourth of an inch at each end. This straight edge should be three inches longer than hearth. Now commence at back of hearth and draw straight edge forward or backward until cement is perfectly smooth and level.

Now lay in tile as per diagram, commencing in the front.

After the tile are all laid and fitted nicely to place, hammer them down lightly to level of floor with a small block of wood about twelve by four inches.

When you have them all nicely in place, level and evenly spaced, mix up a little pure Portland cement, quite thin, and wash it over the surface, working it into the joints where needed. After this has partially set wipe the tile perfectly clean with sawdust or a damp sponge.

All of the cement should be cleaned off face of tile, as it is very difficult to remove after it is set.

Let cement set thoroughly before proceeding.

Now plug wall and screw up mantel fast to wall. Having done this, build a brick arch back of mantel leaving one and a quarter inches for cement and tile. Now take a straight edge one inch longer than mantel opening and place your cement on arch, then draw straight edge upward until cement is perfectly smooth. Now put up tile facing, commencing at bottom and tamp each tile as you put it up. Having done this, let facing set for a few hours. Now tie four wires, about twelve inches long, on grate frame and place frame in front of facing and drive four spikes into fireplace, to which fasten your wires; now set basket in fireplace and build firebrick to fit basket.

HOW TO MIX CEMENT FOR PUTTING UP TILE FACING

One-third Portland cement, one-third slack lime, one-third sand. Mix together thoroughly.

NOTE—The portion of above directions regarding Setting of Tile Facing and Hearth applies to cases where tile has not been ordered mounted.

NOTE—If Hearth is ordered mounted it is only necessary to lay same down and mark around it and cut out the floor the proper size to receive it and then see that it is evenly bedded in good cement or good rich mortar.

NOTE—If Facing is ordered mounted, all that is necessary is to place same in proper position and then build in behind facing solid with common brick and mortar.

NOTE—If you have ordered mantel with a mounted grate, as is used with either Outfits Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 15, 16 and 17, it is only necessary to push same into fireplace and anchor it to the brick lining by means of wires connected to the eyelets provided back of the frame, whereupon it is ready for use; they do not require any labor or expense to set.
